

Conference of the DFG/NCN-project PASTICCIO

Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas

Within the current field of studies on the mobilities of Early Modern musicians, the operatic pasticcio (i.e. a most popular genre consisting of the arrangement of pre-existing musical material for opera performances) has emerged as a paradigmatic musical genre of European musical life during the 18th century. Its structure and aesthetics were not only based on the European-wide distribution and knowledge of musical material, but also on developing concepts of artistic talent, compositional models, and musical ownership. All those concepts were shaped not only by travelling musicians and by the transregional reception of operatic productions, but by political-symbolic intentions and economics.

PASTICCIO aims to investigate the under-researched operatic pasticcio. For that, it analyses the material basis, the compositional and performative creation, as well as the musical reception of pasticcios within a European-wide network of metropolises and courts. On the one hand, tracing such modes of musical transfer and distribution will elucidate the circumstances for the creation and production of pasticcios. On the other hand, an analysis of the musical and literary authorship and its political, social and cultural functions encompassed by the models of pasticcio fragments and by the pasticcios themselves will give insight into both the central aesthetic and cultural developments of the 18th century and the mobilities of its musicians. The online edition of three pasticcios will enrich musical text with cultural-historical data.

Taking place at the beginning of the project, the conference is dedicated to ensuring a survey of actual interdisciplinary pasticcio research, including the presentation of different research approaches as well as the discussion of DH and editorial problems.
